Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure

On July 14, 2015, QVC, Inc. announced that it will open a state-of-the-art distribution center in Ontario, California. The distribution center is expected to begin operations in the third quarter of 2016 and will serve as a West Coast distribution hub for QVC. The distribution center is expected to employ more than 500 team members by 2018. QVC anticipates hiring approximately 1,000 team members in total by 2020 as the distribution center expands fulfillment to all product categories. The distribution center will be designed to accommodate approximately 20% of QVC's total U.S. business and to store and ship all product categories. The distribution center is expected to lower QVC's use of trucking by more than 10 million miles annually. The approximately one-million-square-foot facility is expected to be a capital investment of approximately $165 million of which the majority will be financed over a 15 year term.

This Current Report on Form 8-K and the press release attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 are being furnished to the Securities and Exchange Commission under Item 7.01 of Form 8-K in satisfaction of the public disclosure requirements of Regulation FD and shall not be deemed "filed" for any purpose.

QVC to Open First West Coast Distribution Center in Ontario, California

New facility will create hundreds of local jobs

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (July 14, 2015)- QVC, the world's leading video and ecommerce retailer, announced today that it will open a state-of-the-art distribution center in Ontario, California. When the new facility begins operation in the third quarter of 2016, it will serve as a West Coast distribution hub for QVC.

As QVC ramps up operations, the center is expected to employ more than 500 team members by 2018. QVC anticipates hiring approximately 1,000 team members in total by 2020 as the distribution center expands fulfillment to all product categories.

"At QVC, distribution plays a significant role in enriching the customer service experience. For each and every product we ship, we look at it as an opportunity to build trust, loyalty and engagement with our customers," said James Reid, vice president of distribution operations at QVC. "This new distribution center will enable us to efficiently and swiftly serve our customers throughout the Western United States."

QVC's current U.S. distribution centers are located in Suffolk, Virginia; Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Rocky Mount, North Carolina; and Florence, South Carolina. The existing distribution network has shipped more than 570,000 units in a single day.

"California Governor Jerry Brown, the County of San Bernardino, and the Ontario government and staff were instrumental in our decision to select this site," added Reid. "QVC looks forward to working with local business and government officials, and becoming an active part of the Ontario community."

The West Coast distribution center will be designed to accommodate approximately 20% of QVC's total U.S. business, with plans to store and ship all product categories.

"We are honored that QVC chose California for the location of their new state-of-the art facility and look forward to continuing to help them expand in the Golden State," said Mike Rossi, senior advisor for jobs and business development to Governor Jerry Brown. "QVC applied and was awarded a California Competes tax credit that has proven to be a valuable recruitment tool to attract global companies to California."

Over the past 28 years, QVC has shipped more than 1.7 billion packages in the United States.

"I am excited to welcome QVC, the world's leading video and e-commerce retailer, to the city of Ontario," said Ontario Mayor Paul Leon. "The addition of QVC's new West Coast distribution center furthers the council's goal to invest in growth that will continue to drive the city's economy."

The new LEED-certified facility will utilize high efficiency systems for lighting, heating and cooling and will feature a 250 kW solar array on its rooftop. The West Coast distribution center will also lower the company's use of trucking by more than 10 million miles annually, leading to a reduction of more than 35 million pounds of CO2 emissions per year.
